MEMBERSHIP GUIDELINES

The IIC is a non-profit organization dedicated to the promotion of excellence and thought leadership in commercial insolvency and restructuring policy and practice in Canada.

Our membership is comprised of members who are committed to furthering the objectives of the IIC. The membership policy currently provides for 135 insolvency practitioner members. The membership policy currently provides guidelines that, as a pre-requisite for membership, the applicant must have been practicing for at least 10 years, with such time period running from either the call to the bar or from obtaining the C.A., trustee or other appropriate designation.

Membership Process

1. The membership policy provides for a limit of 135 Insolvency Practitioner Members (i.e.: lawyers, trustees/financial advisors) excluding Financial Institution Members, Academic/Governmental Members, Regulatory/Compensation Members, Fellow and Emeritus Members.
2. Formal applications will be required. An applicant will have to be sponsored or nominated by two existing members. The sponsoring members shall not have any direct business affiliation or family relationship to the applicant. The sponsoring members shall not be current members of the IIC Board of Directors.
3. The Board will provide, on an annual basis, directions to the National Membership Committee (NMC). The directions may vary, but it is expected that direction will be given to the NMC in the following areas:
  - a. Involvement in CCAA cases is not the only measure of a candidate's work history. Work on receiverships or cases under the BIA is relevant. Since we are focussed on commercial insolvencies, experience with personal bankruptcies and small business insolvencies is not considered to be relevant.
  - b. Canada is a mid-market economy and, as such, mid-market cases are relevant.
  - c. It will be important that the applicant have a significant role in cases and not merely supporting roles.
  - d. While in general, work in the insolvency field should make up a substantial portion of the applicant's practice, it is recognized that this test should not be strictly applied in regions where this may not be possible. In such circumstances, other contributions to the profession will be considered.

- e. The review process will consider the full level of an applicant's involvement in and contributions to the insolvency community and the efforts taken to contribute to writing, speaking engagements, teaching, contributions to task forces, insolvency organizations, etc.
  - f. Character and reputation for ethical and professional behaviour are critical considerations.
  - g. There are no guaranteed spots for any firm. Similarly, there are no restrictions on the number of applicants or members from any one firm.
  - h. There are no specific number of spots for any given city or region.
  - i. Age and the number of prior applications are not relevant.
4. The NMC, in turn, will ensure that the direction from the Board is passed down to the Regional Membership Committees (RMC).
5. RMC's will be established in a process determined by the Board for the following regions:
  - (i) British Columbia, Yukon and Northwest Territories
  - (ii) Prairies (Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba)
  - (iii) Ontario
  - (iv) Quebec
  - (v) Atlantic Canada (Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Newfoundland and PEI)
6. The RMC's will evaluate applications received from applicants in their region. Applicants will be evaluated on the basis of the Membership Admission Standards set forth in Appendix "A". The RMC have the responsibility of ensuring that they receive sufficient input from the members in their region so as to be able to fully and fairly assess the merits of the applications. If possible, substantially all members in the region should be canvassed.
7. After evaluating the applications received from applicants in their region, the RMC's will take a vote among themselves. Applicants who receive an affirmative vote from 75% of the voting members of the applicable RMC will be included in the membership report prepared for the NMC. The RMC's will provide a ranking, in priority, using their discretion of those applicants in their region who achieved the 75% voting threshold.
8. The NMC will consider the reports of the RMC's and will then submit its report to the Board, in which it will recommend which applicants should be invited to join the IIC.

9. The Board will consider the report of the NMC and make the determination as to which applicants should be invited to join the IIC.
10. The applications of applicants included in a Regional Committee report who are not invited to join the IIC will be kept on file. It is expected that not all applicants in Regional Committee reports will be admitted. Applicants may advise the IIC that their application should stand for another year but not indefinitely or the applicant may update the application to add information which may provide additional support for admission, A waiting list will not be maintained. New applicants will stand on an equal footing with existing applicants.
